

2024

CENSUS REPORT

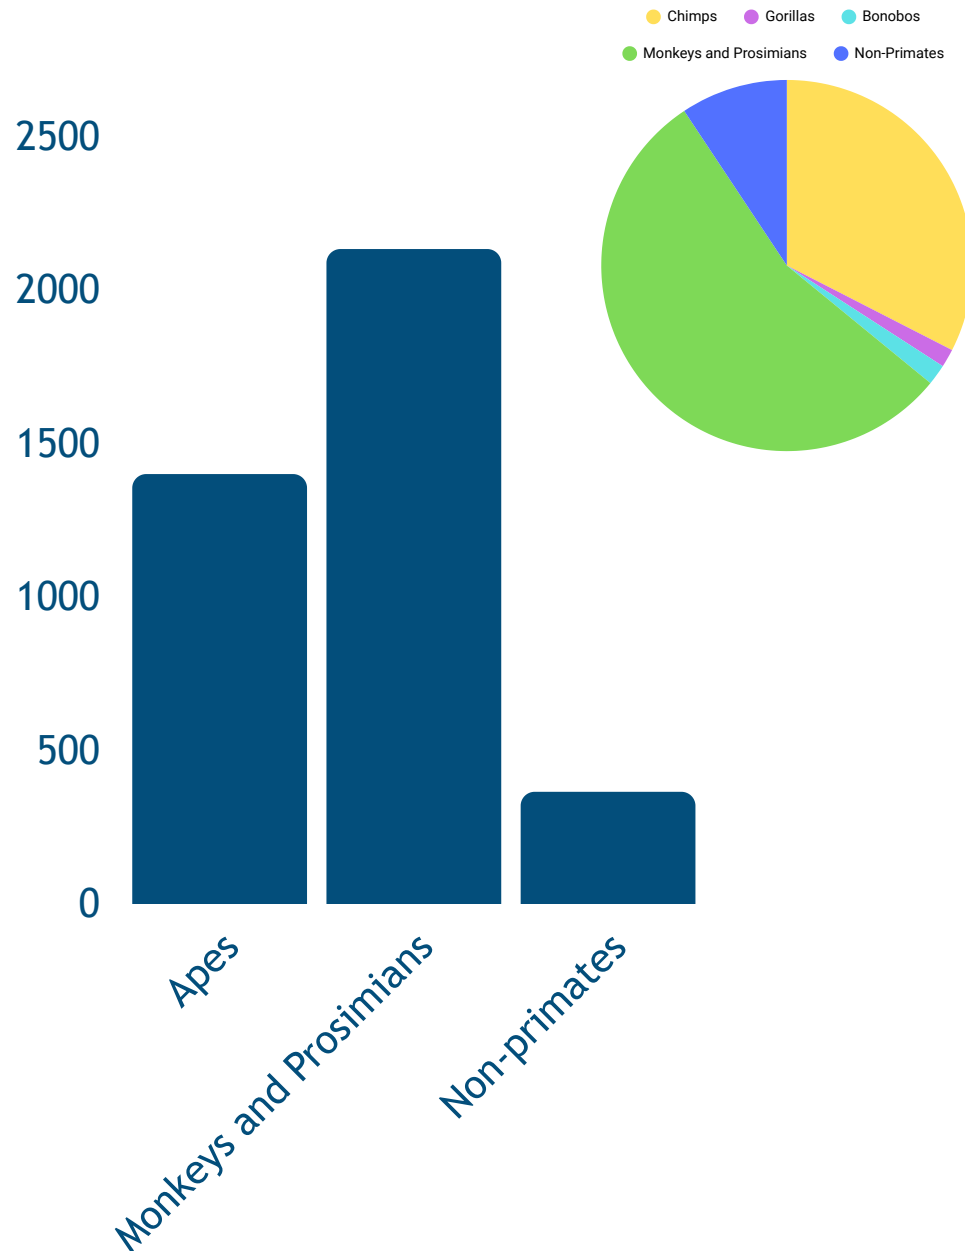

Protecting Primates Together

PASA, the Pan African Sanctuary Alliance, is the only alliance of African primate sanctuaries, uniting more than 20 accredited sanctuaries across 13 countries.

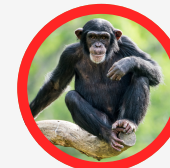

Ape Action Africa (Cameroon)
Chimfunshi Wildlife Orphanage (Zambia)
Chimp Eden (South Africa)
Chimpanzee Conservation Center (CCC) (Guinea)
Chimpanzee Rehabilitation Project (Gambia)
Colobus Conservation (Kenya)
Drill Ranch (Nigeria)
Fernan-Vaz Gorilla Project (Gabon)
HELP Congo (Congo)
J.A.C.K. (D.R. Congo)
Lilongwe Wildlife Centre (Malawi)
Limbe Wildlife Centre (Cameroon)
Lola ya Bonobo (D.R. Congo)
Lwiro Primates Rehabilitation Center (D.R. Congo)
Ngamba Island Chimpanzee Sanctuary (Uganda)
Parc de la Lékédi (Gabon)
Projet Protection des Gorilles - Congo (PPG) (Congo)
Projet Protection des Gorilles - Gabon (PPG) (Gabon)
Sanaga-Yong Chimpanzee Rescue (Cameroon)
Sweetwaters Chimpanzee Sanctuary (Kenya)
Tacugama Chimpanzee Sanctuary (Sierra Leone)
Tchimpounga Chimpanzee Rehabilitation Center (Congo)
Vervet Monkey Foundation (South Africa)

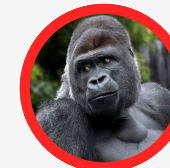

Over 3,800 animals received expert care at PASA Sanctuaries

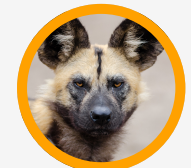

More than 63% of the animals cared for are threatened with extinction, including:

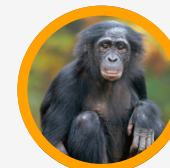

Western Chimpanzee

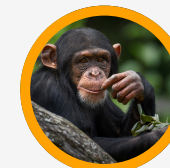

Western Lowland Gorilla

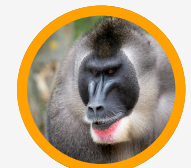

African Wild Dog

Bonobo

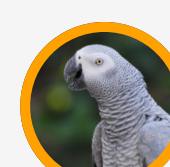

Other Chimpanzee sp.

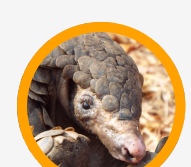

Drill

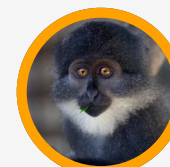

Golden-Bellied Mangabey

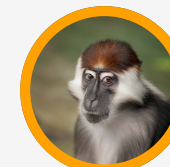

Grey Parrot

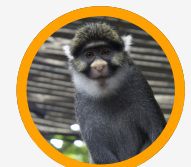

Pangolin

Preuss' Guenon

Red-Capped Mangabey

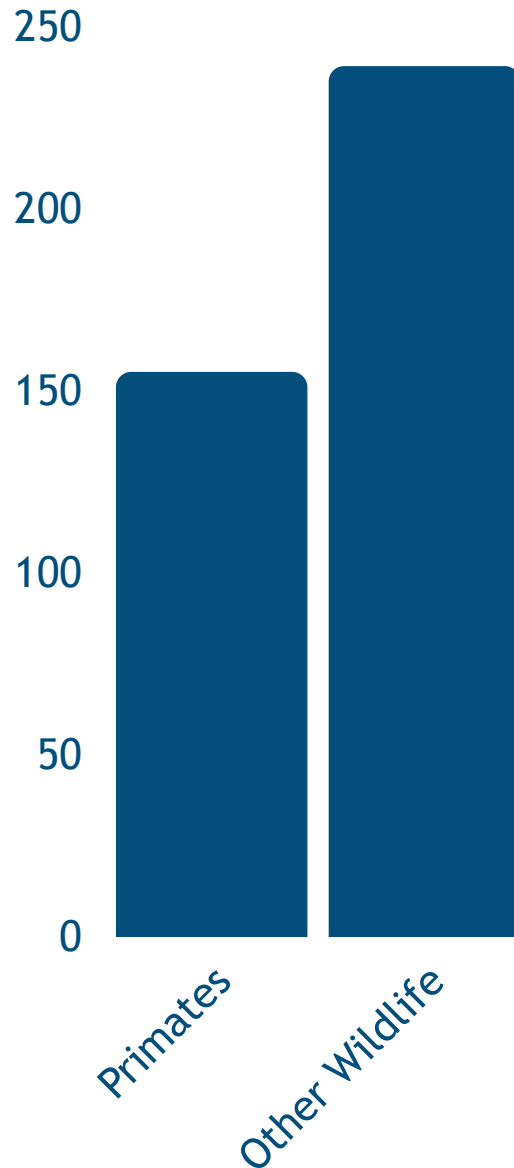

Sclater's Guenon

Critically Endangered

Endangered

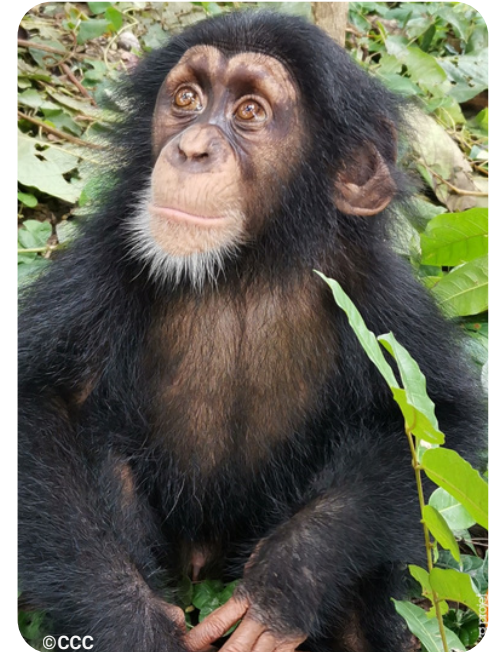

The alliance rescued over 300 animals from trafficking and cruelty

Rescue Spotlight: Siaka

Siaka was just one month old when he was rescued by Guinean authorities and brought to safety at the Chimpanzee Conservation Center (CCC). Now, thanks to their dedicated care, he's attending forest school with other orphaned chimps.

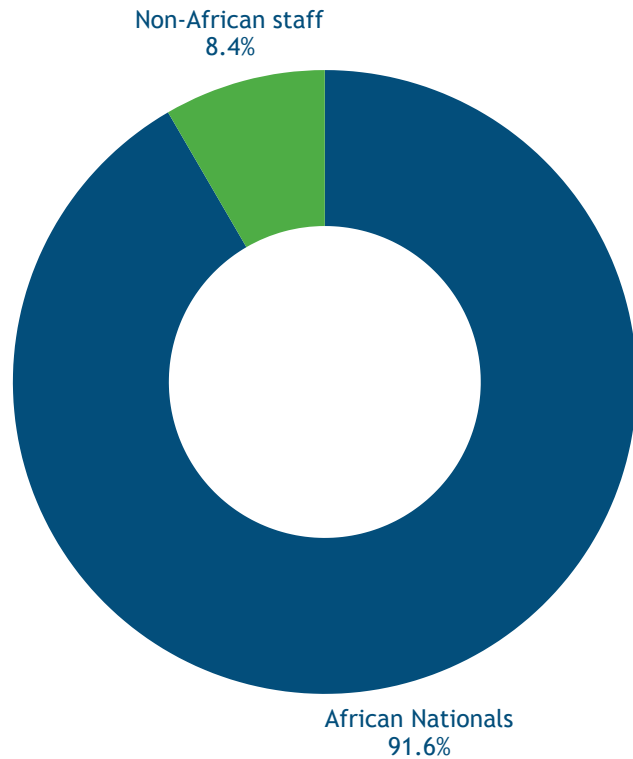

Parrots Find Sanctuary

In 2024, over 130 endangered African Grey Parrots were rescued by Limbe Wildlife Centre, Tchimpounga Chimpanzee Rehabilitation Center, and Drill Ranch.

The alliance employs over a thousand people, providing opportunity and stability to conservationists.

Fostering African Leadership

Lucas Maluleke

Lucas has shown the utmost dedication to his work at the Vervet Monkey Foundation in South Africa. This dedication to vervet monkey conservation led him to be awarded the PASA's Leadership Development Grant in 2024.

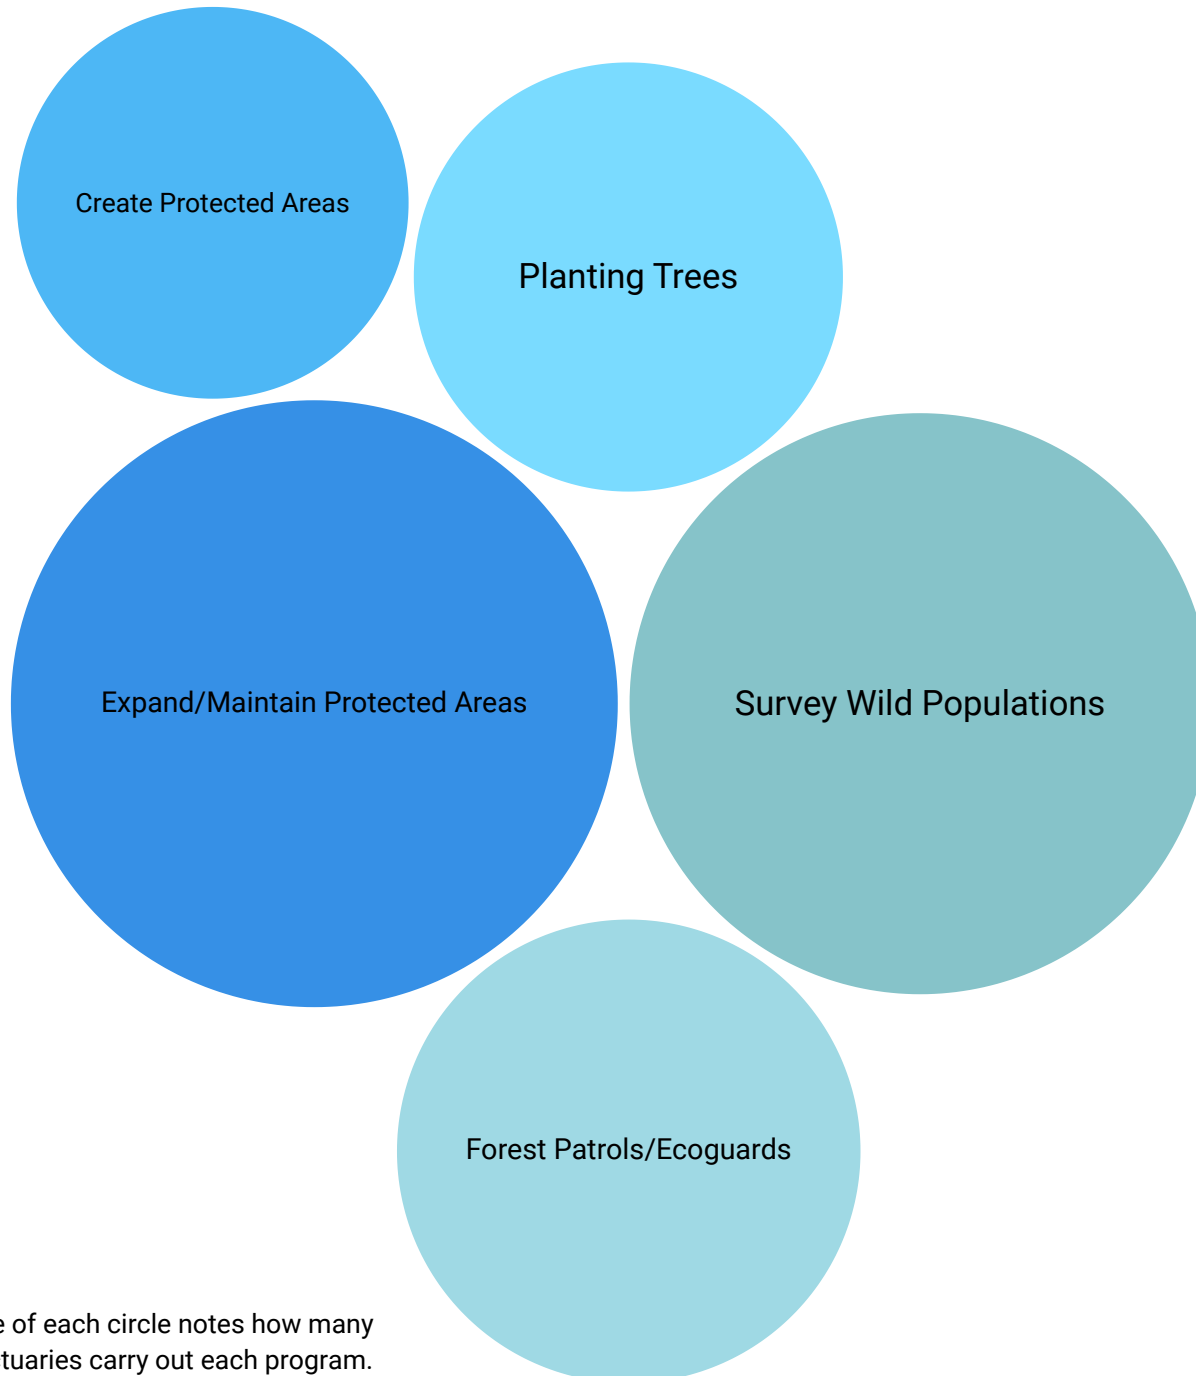

Asuquo Nsa Ani

Asuquo is a recipient of the Siddle-Marsden Award by PASA, having been nominated for his steadfast commitment to conservation. At Drill Ranch in Nigeria, Asuquo works to ensure drills receive exemplary care no matter the day to day challenges.

Sanctuaries Protecting Wild Primates

Safeguarding habitats

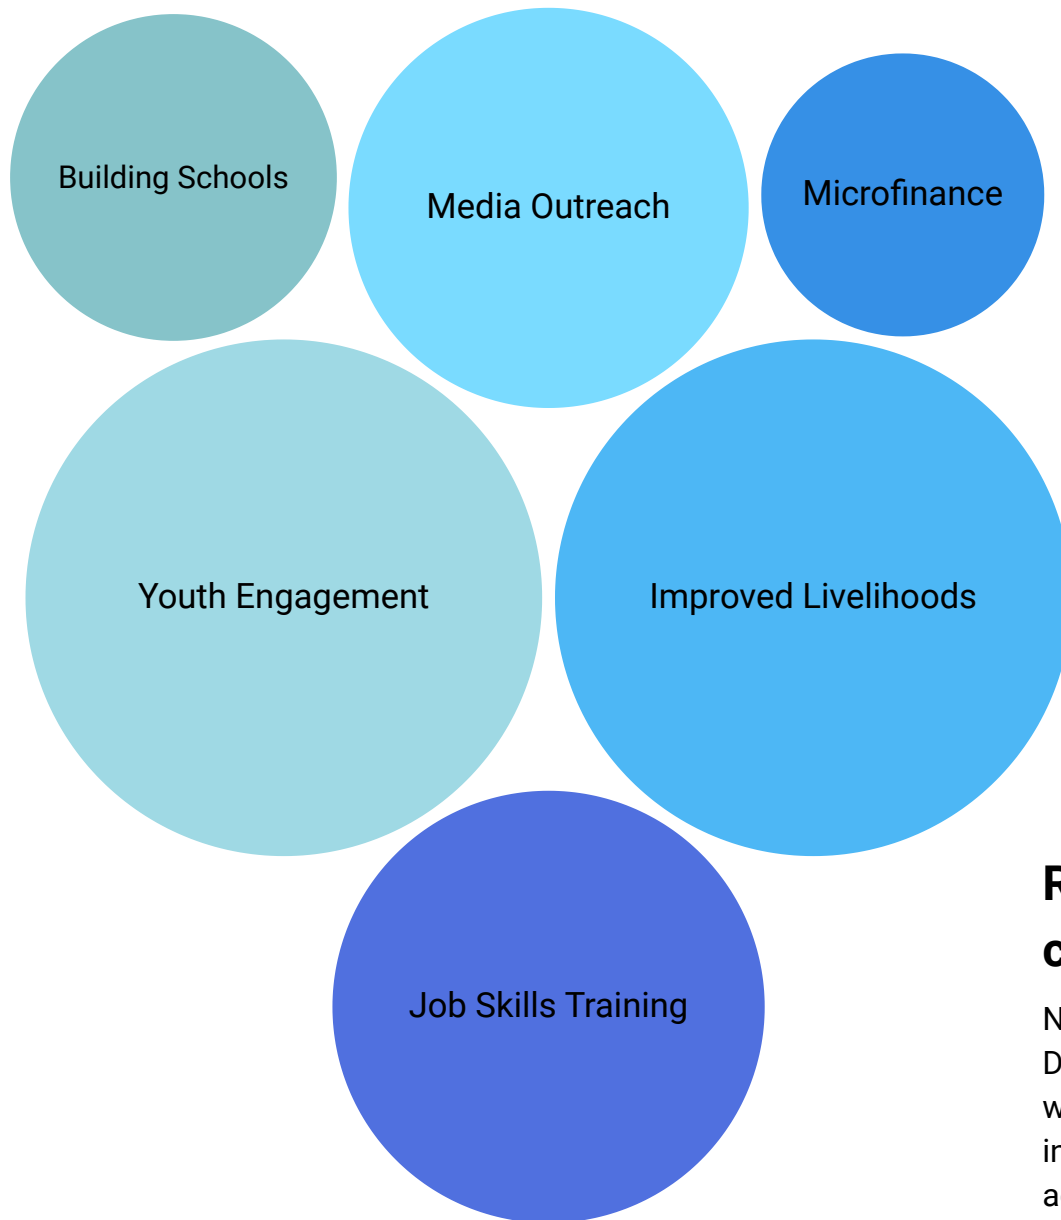

In Cameroon, Sanaga-Yong Chimpanzee Sanctuary worked with the local government to patrol protected forest near the sanctuary. They removed snares and helped reduce illegal logging and hunting in the important ape habitat

Monitoring wild chimpanzees

Tacugama Chimpanzee Sanctuary is conducting crucial monitoring of wild chimpanzee populations in the forest of Sierra Leone. By collecting data on wild populations and the threats they face, PASA members can implement more effective measures to conserve them and their habitats.

Sanctuaries Supporting Communities

*Size of each circle notes how many sanctuaries carry out each program.

Protecting Habitat and Helping Communities

At PASA member Limbe Wildlife Centre beside Mount Cameroon National Park, the Green Project pays local women farmers and former hunters to sustainably harvest leaves and forest plants - no new land is cleared. Those greens feed rescued primates, while the steady income keeps people from hunting or cutting the forest, protecting this important habitat.

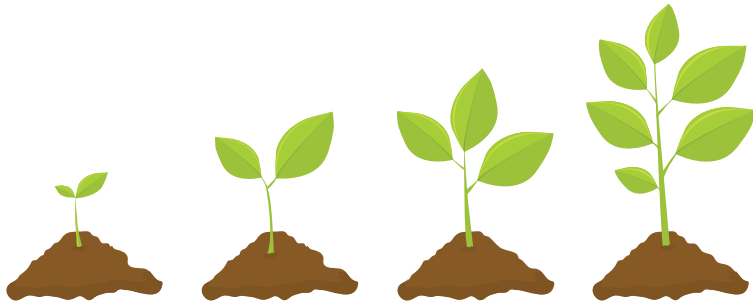

Reducing human-chimpanzee conflict

New boreholes in Uganda's Kagadi District now provide safe, nearby water to residents, ending risky trips into chimpanzee habitat. This access has the potential to greatly reduce human-chimpanzee conflict, protecting both community health and endangered apes.

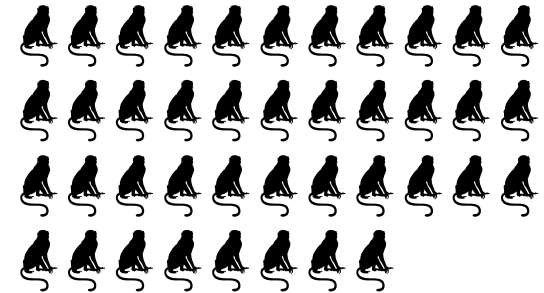

Healing Forests and Restoring Wild Populations

6 PASA members across Africa are involved in reforestation efforts

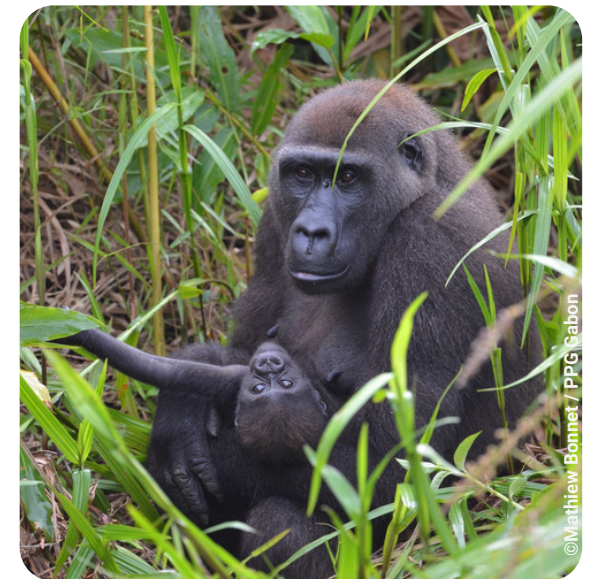

PASA members released over 40 primates to the wild in 2024

Regenerating Forests

Colobus Conservation in Kenya succeeded in planting 10,000 seedlings to help restore indigenous coastal forest, with an 80% survival rate.

Reintroduction Success

PPG in Gabon recorded the birth of two gorillas fathered by a reintroduced male, a milestone in gorilla conservation.

Why is being a part of the alliance
important to you?

“Having access to a network of like-minded people who can help problem solve, resource share,
and distribute knowledge.”

“It provides an opportunity to share knowledge, receive advice, learn from others and receive support for different programmes.”

“It helps us amplify our voice and the conservation efforts on a global stage.”

“A good sanctuary network to share experience and certification, and proof of legitimacy for our work.”

“Together we're stronger.”